

High efficiency and low environmental loads combined at last

With our Green-line environmental labelling, we have introduced a way of showing that products comply with our most stringent environmental requirements. We take every aspect, from manufacture to recycling, into account.

Disc-filter bags are among our most complex and sought-after products, which we adapt to an infinite number of shapes and operating conditions. What is more, in choosing Green-line you also get a product involving the simplest possible waste management.

All Green-line products are suitable for energy recovery, with water and carbon dioxide as by-products.

TP-Filter has more than 20 years' experience of designing and producing disc-filter bags for every type of machine on the market. We constantly develop materials, parts and designs for real industrial needs.
